

Code of Ethics and Standards of Practice of the CCIM Institute of the National Association of REALTORS®

CCIM DESIGNEES and CCIM Institute CANDIDATES are members of the CCIM Institute (referred to herein as the Institute). Where the term "CCIM Institute Members" is used in this Code and Preamble, it shall apply to both categories of membership.

While the Code of Ethics establishes obligations that may be higher than those mandated by law, in any instance where the Code of Ethics and the law conflict, the obligations of the law must take precedence.

PREAMBLE

Under all is the land. Upon its wise utilization and widely allocated ownership depend the survival and growth of free institutions and of our civilization. Institute members should recognize that the interests of the nation and its citizens require the highest and best use of the land and the widest distribution of land ownership. They require the creation of adequate housing, the building of functioning cities, the development of productive industries and farms, and the preservation of a healthful environment.

Such interests impose obligations beyond those of ordinary commerce. They impose grave social responsibility and a patriotic duty to which Institute members should dedicate themselves, and for which they should be diligent in preparing themselves. Institute members, therefore, are zealous to maintain and improve the standards of their calling and share a common responsibility for its integrity and honor.

In recognition and appreciation of their obligations to clients, customers, the public, and each other, Institute members continuously strive to become and remain informed on issues affecting real estate and, as knowledgeable professionals, they willingly share the fruit of their experience and study with others. They identify and take steps, through enforcement of this Code of Ethics and by assisting appropriate regulatory bodies, to eliminate practices which may damage the public or which might discredit or bring dishonor to the CCIM designation, the CCIM Institute or the real estate profession.

CCIM Institute members having direct personal knowledge of conduct that may violate the Code of Ethics involving misappropriation of client or customer funds or property, willful discrimination, or fraud resulting in substantial economic harm, bring such matters to the attention of the appropriate Board or Association of REALTORS® and the CCIM Institute. (NAR Amended 1/00; CCIM Amended 10/06)

Realizing that cooperation with other real estate professionals promotes the best interests of those who utilize their services, Institute members urge exclusive representation of clients; do not attempt to gain any unfair advantage over their competitors; and they refrain from making unsolicited comments about other practitioners. In instances where their opinion is sought, or where Institute members believe that comment is necessary, their opinion is offered in an objective, professional manner, uninfluenced by any personal motivation or potential advantage or gain.

The CCIM designation has come to connote competency, fairness, and high integrity resulting from adherence to an ideal of moral conduct in business relations. No inducement of profit and no instruction from clients can ever justify departure from this ideal.

In the interpretation of this obligation, Institute members can take no safer guide than that which has been handed down through the centuries, embodied in the Golden Rule, "Treat others the way you would wish to be treated."

Accepting this standard as their own, Institute members pledge to observe its spirit in all of their activities whether conducted personally, through associates or others, or via technological means, and to conduct their business in accordance with the tenets set forth below. (NAR Amended 01/07; CCIM Amended 04/08)

However, information received through a commercial property information exchange, Multiple Listing Service, or any other offer of cooperation may not be used to target clients of other Institute members to whom such offers to provide services may be made. (NAR Amended 11/03)

(Amended 1/98)

ARTICLE 17

In the event of contractual disputes or specific non-contractual disputes as defined in Standard of Practice 17-4 between Institute members associated with different firms, arising out of their relationship as Institute members, the Institute members shall submit the dispute to arbitration in accordance with the regulations of the Institute rather than litigate the matter.

In the event clients of Institute members wish to arbitrate contractual disputes arising out of real estate transactions, Institute members shall arbitrate those disputes in accordance with the regulations of the Institute, provided the clients agree to be bound by the decision.

The obligation to participate in arbitration contemplated by this Article includes the obligation of CCIM Institute Members (principals) to cause their firms to arbitrate and be bound by any award. (Adopted 1/01)

Standard of Practice 17-1

The filing of litigation and refusal to withdraw from it by Institute members in an arbitrable matter constitutes a refusal to arbitrate.

Standard of Practice 17-2

Article 17 does not require Institute members to arbitrate in those circumstances when all parties to the dispute advise the Institute in writing that they choose not to arbitrate before the Institute.

Standard of Practice 17-3

Institute members, when acting solely as principals in a real estate transaction, are not obligated to arbitrate disputes with other Institute members absent a specific written agreement to the contrary.

Standard of Practice 17-4

1. Where a listing broker has compensated a cooperating broker and another cooperating broker subsequently claims to be the procuring cause of the sale or lease. In such cases the complainant may name the first cooperating broker as respondent and arbitration may proceed without the listing broker being named as a respondent. When arbitration occurs between two (or more) cooperating brokers and where the listing broker is not a party, the amount in dispute and the amount of any potential resulting award is limited to the amount paid to the respondent by the listing broker and any amount credited or paid to a party to the transaction at the direction of the respondent. Alternatively, if the complaint is brought against the listing broker, the listing broker may name the first cooperating broker as a third-party respondent. In either instance the decision of the hearing panel as to procuring cause shall be conclusive with respect to all current or subsequent claims of the parties for compensation arising out of the underlying cooperative transaction. (Adopted 1/97; NAR Amended 1/07; CCIM Amended 4/08)

2. Where a buyer or tenant representative is compensated by the seller or landlord, and not by the listing broker, and the listing broker, as a result, reduces the commission owed by the seller or landlord and, subsequent to such actions, another cooperating broker claims to be the procuring cause of sale or lease. In such cases the complainant may name the first cooperating broker as respondent and arbitration may proceed without the listing broker being named as a respondent. When arbitration occurs between two (or more) cooperating brokers and where the listing broker is not a party, the amount in dispute and the amount of any potential resulting award is limited to the amount paid to the respondent by the seller or landlord and any amount credited or paid to a party to the transaction at the direction of the respondent. Alternatively, if the complaint is brought against the listing broker, the listing broker may name the first cooperating broker as a third-party respondent. In either instance the decision of the hearing panel as to procuring cause shall be conclusive with respect to all current or subsequent claims of the parties for compensation arising out of the underlying cooperative transaction. (Adopted 1/97; NAR Amended 1/07; CCIM Amended 4/08)
3. Where a buyer or tenant representative is compensated by the buyer or tenant and, as a result, the listing broker reduces the commission owed by the seller or landlord and, subsequent to such actions, another cooperating broker claims to be the procuring cause of sales or lease. In such cases the complainant may name the first cooperating broker as respondent and arbitration may proceed without the listing broker being named as a respondent. Alternatively, if the complaint is brought against the listing broker, the listing broker may name the first cooperating broker as a third-party respondent. In either instance the decision of the hearing panel as to procuring cause shall be conclusive with respect to all current or subsequent claims of the parties for compensation arising out of the underlying cooperative transaction. (Adopted 1/97)
4. Where two or more listing brokers claim entitlement to compensation pursuant to open listing with a seller or landlord who agrees to participate in arbitration (or who requests arbitration) and who agrees to be bound by the decision. In cases where one of the listing brokers has been compensated by the seller or landlord, the other listing broker, as complainant, may name the first listing broker as respondent and arbitration may proceed between the brokers. (Adopted 1/97)

5. Where a buyer or tenant representative is compensated by the seller or landlord, and not by the listing broker, and the listing broker, as a result, reduces the commission owed by the seller or landlord and, subsequent to such actions, claims to be the procuring cause of sale or lease. In such cases arbitration shall be between the listing broker and the buyer or tenant representative and the amount in dispute is limited to the amount of the reduction of commission to which the listing broker agreed. (Adopted 1/05)

Standard of Practice 17-5

The obligation of arbitrate established in Article 17 includes disputes between Institute members (principals) in different states in instances where, absent an established inter-association arbitration agreement, the Institute member (principal) requesting arbitration agrees to submit to the jurisdiction of, travel to, participate in, and be bound by any resulting award rendered in arbitration conducted by the respondent(s) Institute member's association, in instances where the respondent(s) Institute member's association determines that an arbitrable issue exists. (NAR Adopted 1/07; CCIM Adopted 4/08)
